Conference Board Discusses Proposal For Ending Strike

Union Group Has Closed Session To Decide Position on Solution Of Deadlock With Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Westinghouse conference board of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers went into a closed session today to decide the union position on a federal proposal aimed at resolving a 113-day strike deadlock with the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Spokesmen for the union declined to comment on the prospects but indicated it might be "several hours" before a decision has been reached.

The proposal, by Joseph F. Finnegan of the federal Mediation and Conciliation Service called on the union and the company to set aside for the present any further negotiations on a company demand for the right to make efficiency studies of certain jobs. With this knotty problem out of the picture, Finnegan said, the negotiators should seek agreement on other contract terms.

Finnegan described the efficiency or time study issue as the "focal point" of the negotiations and said the question "has become so obscured by the tensions and bitterness engendered by this protracted work stoppage that I do not believe that it can be successfully resolved at this time by normal collective bargaining procedures."

With the time study issue set aside, Finnegan proposed that negotiations continue on other disputes. These include wages, arbitration proceedings, length of contract and strike settlement terms. Finnegan said that when these other issues are settled the strikers would return to work and the negotiators would resume their discussion of the time study issue under a moratorium of 90 days.

Sixty days after the start of the moratorium, the company and union would report to Finnegan any progress and unresolved issues in the time study dispute.

Finnegan said he then will recommend that both sides "voluntarily" submit any unresolved aspects of the dispute to "fact-finding or other appropriate procedure."

Spurns Father And Will Live In Red China

Ex-Chinese Student Spent 5 Years Here In Mental Hospital

HONG KONG (AP)—A former Chinese student who spent five years in a Missouri mental hospital ignored the warning of his father today and chose instead to live in Red China with his wife and daughter.

Liu Yung-ming, 26, a civil engineering graduate of the University of Missouri, crossed the border at 4 p.m. with his wife. She, their 8-year-old daughter and a brother had come from Canton to persuade Liu to return with them.

The British government of Hong Kong said Liu told immigration authorities at the border "he wished to settle in Hong Kong with his wife."

"He was informed that this could not be permitted and after further discussion with his wife he then accompanied her over the border," the announcement said. The British said they had found no evidence to support Liu's claim that he formerly had lived in Hong Kong.

Liu's father had warned that if the son went to Red China, the Communists would kill him.

"If I hadn't had the foresight to get away in time, the trees on my tomb would have been quite tall by this time," Liu Yi-wu wrote in a letter to his son which he made public on Formosa. The elder Liu is a Nationalist minor official there.

Liu's mother and a sister also live on Formosa. Nationalist authorities had promised Liu a warm welcome and every assistance if he chose Formosa.

Liu went to the United States as a student before the Communists seized power in China. He earned a master's degree in engineering at Missouri in 1949. Then he suffered a mental breakdown and was placed in a hospital at Farmington, Mo.

The Chinese Reds charged in December that he had been detained by force in the state mental hospital. The State Department said it had wanted to deport him but the British wouldn't give him a visa to pass through Hong Kong.

Liu was released last month after the U. S. Immigration Service announced it had received the transit permission to pass through the crown colony to Red China.

It's Really Great

Slushy Sedalia, they call it. But don't lose your temper over the sloppy streets. Remember that this is a glorious break for Central Missouri farms, and Sedalia, in turn, benefits directly.

School officials have estimated cost of the $1,800,000 bond issue will approximate 30 cents on the hundred valuation. That's not much more than it costs to buy a package of cigarettes a week, every week, every year about the same amount a taxpayer would have to pay on property assessed at $5,000. One cup of coffee less per day would pay the additional tax.

Surely no great sacrifice is demanded of the Sedalia taxpayers to go to the polls February 7 and vote for a bond issue which will accelerate the movement forward of a long due school building improvement program.

Polls in School Bond Election Will Be Open From 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The polls in Tuesday's election on the proposed school bond issue in Sedalia will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The polling places will be the seven elementary schools—Broadway, Horace Mann, Hubbard, Jefferson, Mark Twain, Washington and Whittier—and the voter can choose any one of them as his polling place. It makes no difference where in Sedalia he lives, but for convenience the school board wishes that the voter would vote in the school nearest his home.

The voter does not need to be registered in order to vote.

The only requirements for a qualified voter are that he be 21 years of age or over who has lived in the state of Missouri at least one year and in the Sedalia school district for 30 days.

Restaurant Chain Sells 'Heartburgers'

CHICAGO (AP)—A nationwide restaurant chain today began selling hamburgers shaped like hearts.

The idea is to remind patrons of national heart fund month. The general manager of the Peter Pan Snack Shop chain, Sidney Smith, said he would donate a penny to the heart fund for every "heart burger" sold between now and the end of February.

Comments City School Board For Proposal

The Pettis County Agricultural Extension Council unanimously voted at its monthly meeting Saturday to commend the Sedalia Board of Education for its proposal to add vocational agriculture to the public school system.

A letter was sent to the board, stating that the Council was aware of the proposed addition to Smith-Cotton high school which would house both home economics classes and vocational agriculture classes, to be built at an estimated cost of $128,710. Of this amount, it was estimated that $52,750 would be used to build the vocational agriculture part.

"We farm folks are very much interested in our youth," the Council wrote, "and in educational programs for their benefit such as 4-H and vocational agriculture. When our latest Rural Program was developed two years ago, one of the main recommendations was to encourage the establishing of vocational agriculture and vocational home economics in more of the schools of the county."

In view of the school board's proposal, the letter stated, the Council voted its commendation unanimously. The letter was signed by C. S. Arnold, Council chairman.

CBS Offers Network Time to Ezra Benson

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has offered a half-hour of television network time to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson because of his criticism of a recent program.

CBS President Frank Stanton also offered equal time to two Benson critics, Sens. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Benson said that Edward R. Murrow's "See It Now" program on Jan. 26 gave "a distorted impression of farm conditions."

Anderson and Humphrey had asked CBS for time equal to Benson's if the network granted the secretary's request.

Bulletin Senate Stops Effort To Shelve Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today defeated an effort by opponents to shelve the House-passed natural gas bill.

In the first major test of strength on the hotly-disputed measure, the Senate voted down a move by Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) to send it back to the Commerce Committee.

The vote, which cut across party lines, pointed toward probable eventual passage of the bill.

The Senate earlier had sided temporarily with proposals to investigate any attempts to influence the votes of senators with campaign contributions.

He also asked the citizens "to express their appreciation to the religious bodies, school organizations, veterans' associations, fraternal groups and service clubs that sponsor our Cub Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer units."

Normal Weather Returns, Europe Begins Recovery

LONDON (AP)—More nearly normal winter weather returned to much of Europe today after a record-breaking week long cold wave that left 170 dead. But the freeze-up left much trouble in its wake.

The hungry wolves are prowling around villages in Greece. Mountain passes are blocked by snow all across the Continent. Dozens of villages are isolated. Two international trains are snowbound near the Greek-Turkish border. For Britons, it was "wasteful Monday," with hundreds of thousands of householders trying frantically to repair broken water pipes.

Drifting ice played havoc with gondolas on the canals of Venice. Another snow storm loomed for Berlin. Paris was gloomy and rainy.

The cold wave death toll by country: Britain 36, France 46, Italy 23, Greece 3, Holland 9, Germany 13, Denmark 11, Turkey 10, Austria 5, Switzerland 4, Yugoslavia 2, Spain 2 and Belgium 1.

Balmy winds out of the west countered the icy Siberian blasts of the past week to send the London temperature up to 45 degrees this morning.

Freezing conditions were still reported in northern Italy and Germany.

Mollet Is Greeted By Angry Shouting Of French Crowds

Colonials Hurl Rotten Tomatoes At His Car As He Approaches Algiers Square to Honor Dead

ALGIERS (AP)—Yelling crowds of angry colonials hurled rotten tomatoes at Premier Guy Mollet today as he arrived in Algiers seeking to quiet hostile French settlers and curb nationalist violence.

Police and troops held back an angry throng as Mollet placed a wreath on the monument to Algerian war dead. The crowd trampled the wreath to bits after the ceremony. The shouts and chants of the throng drowned out the military band which played during the ceremony.

Mollet drove to the square in a flag-decorated car which was pelted. There were a few flowers thrown in his path, however.

The huge crowd began to assemble hours before his arrival from Paris. It was made up largely of war veterans and students. Elaborate police and troop precautions were taken.

Angry French settlers who oppose any concessions to the nationalists threatened bloodshed if Mollet carries out his intent to bring Gen. Georges Catroux here as resident Cabinet minister. Catroux is known to favor more rights for the North African territory's native Moslems.

Many European stores closed and worried parents kept their children from school.

Although no personal attacks on Mollet were expected, some 3,000 Foreign Legionnaires and 2,000 riot police with armored vehicles encircled the tense city. Strong military guards were planned for Mollet.

Tension increased over the weekend as French war veterans led European crowds through the streets of Algiers and other major cities demonstrating against any softening toward the nationalist terrorists.

The rebels, who have kept 200,000 French troops tied up, were expected to continue their pressure during Mollet's visit to underscore their autonomy demands. Mollet has promised quick elections to pick Algerian leaders to negotiate with France on a measure of self-rule. Before taking off from Paris to tackle the main problem facing his six-day-old government, Mollet said he would stay in Algeria "three weeks if necessary" to quiet the 15-month Moslem rebellion.

Fire Causes Heavy Loss To Church

Overheated Furnace Is Believed Cause Of $8,000 Fire

Fire believed to have started from an overheated furnace caused damages at the Grissom Temple of the C.M.E. church, 716 North Montauk, estimated at $8,000 Sunday morning. The fire was discovered about 10 a.m. Sunday by neighbors who saw smoke coming from the windows.

Roy Blackmore, 517 North Osage, janitor for the church, had started an early fire to warm up the building for morning services and left. At that time everything appeared to be in order.

About 8:15 a.m. Eual Richardson, 103 East Henry, member of the church board, was at the church making arrangements for services and said he left shortly after 9 a.m. and everything seemed to be all right at the time. He said he left and went to his home to change clothes before church services.

When the fire companies arrived on the scene, the building was filled with smoke and it was pouring out around all the windows and doors. A line of hose was laid by the companies. Firemen entered the basement where fire was seen and began pouring water on the blaze.

Within a few minutes the fire broke out in the upstairs auditorium of the church and Chief John G. Luck had a second line laid. It was about an hour before the fire was brought under control and extinguished.

Damage to the church was estimated at $6,000 and to the contents at $2,000.

The Rev. H. L. Wilson, pastor of the church, who resides at 216 West Cooper, notified members of the church to meet at his home until other arrangements could be made. He also said the losses were believed to be covered by insurance.

Navy Plane Is Missing On Antarctic Flight Weather Break Needed

ABOARD U.S.S. ARNEB, in Ross Sea, Antarctica (AP)—The command of Operation Deepfreeze hoped today for clear weather to throw all available aircraft into a search for a Navy plane missing with seven men aboard.

Two ground search parties crossed the ice yesterday between the Little America V base and a trail post 400 miles eastward from which the missing craft took off. But they found no trace of the missing men.

The plane, a de Havilland Otter, was flying Friday from Marie Byrd Land to Little America with some members of a trail-blazing party whose vehicles had broken down. It made its last voice radio contact 7 minutes after takeoff. An SOS signal believed from the plane was heard Saturday.

Bad weather hampered an air survey. Twice an Otter has attempted to reach the area where the Otter was believed down, but both times it was forced to turn back.

All of Sedalia, As Well As Students, Would Profit by New Building

PROPOSED PHYSICAL EDUCATION, MUSIC BUILDING—Architect's perspective drawing of the new building. The east wall of the building follows the school property line, bordering the Katy Railroad right-of-way.

Sedalia's school bond proposal, to be voted upon Feb. 7, includes under Proposition II $600,000 for a new physical education and music building at the high school.

"There is no question that our biggest deficiency at the high school is in the physical education department," said Forrest L. Drake, principal of the high school. "With one or two exceptions, all of our grade schools have more satisfactory facilities. Here is where we hold our classes in physical education."

The stage of the school auditorium is lined off with basketball court markings, and goals have been installed in the wings. On this floor a group of young athletes was practicing free throws, dribbling and passing, under the eye of the instructor.

"And these boys over here are candidates for our track team, getting a pre-season workout."

Some boys were jogging in a circle around the seat in the auditorium, and others were running across the front of the stage, upsteps to the balcony, over and down to complete the course.

Four groups use the stage for physical education—Junior High boys, Junior High girls, Senior High boys, Senior High girls. Each group is divided into classes of manageable size, and these classes take turns. Whenever there is a school program which requires settings on the stage, no classes can be held and physical education students are assigned to study hall.

Plans of the proposed new building show that all Junior and Senior High students can be accommodated in a full physical education schedule in the space to be provided. The center section of the building contains three practice courts of full varsity size, 50 by 94 feet. Three intra-mural basketball games, or three gym sections, can be held at the same time.

For school games, a varsity court will be marked off in the north-south direction, parallel to the bleachers. The concrete bleachers along the west will seat approximately 1,800 spectators. Shower and dressing rooms for junior and senior high school boys will be located on the east—leaving the present gymnasium for girls only and for additional intra-mural games—after school hours.

"At first we thought in terms of a basketball court only," said Dr. Hunt, "but when we got into the plans and costs we found that for very little more we could move the end walls out and triple the usefulness of the building."

Plans recommended by the board of education provide a music department in the south end of the building, and an indoor track with additional dressing rooms and classrooms on the north. The slanting east wall of the building runs along the school property line.

The main music room is raised about four feet above the gymnasium floor and faces the physical education space. When folding doors are open it becomes the stage for a large auditorium. Concrete risers at the back of this stage are designed for classes in instrumental music and for arrangement of a concert band, large choral groups, etc. Behind the risers is adequate space for storage of band instruments, uniforms, and miscellaneous music equipment.

Complete Facilities

Adjoining the stage room are a classroom for vocal music instruction, individual practice rooms for music students, and a small music office. The whole is in effect a complete, modern music building, which will double as a well-appointed stage.

"The new building will allow us to vacate two classrooms, inadequate in size, now being used for music, for general use; and it also gives us two additional rooms for health classes. Thus one of the benefits of this multi-purpose building is that it adds classrooms to our high school."

The indoor track at the north end, which gives the building its character, is the biggest bargain among the school improvements. "You might say we have pushed the north wall back and fenced in some more air." The floor of this area will be dirt.

This will double the space for physical education and it will make provision for students who are not primarily interested in basketball. It will have a running track, jumping and vaulting pits, tennis court, volleyball court, softball diamond, etc. It will also provide space for band drills and many other school activities—regardless of weather—rain or shine—snow or sleet.

There is enough boiler capacity in the present plant to take care of this building. As much as the building will mean to the high school students, this is only part of the purpose for which it is designed, according to the board of education.

The present school bond issue will in a way express the appreciation of the citizens of Sedalia for her interest in us.

This building to be used by the entire community for symphony concerts, choral groups, civic programs, after-work sports, socials and recreation, which will add greatly to the recreational enjoyment of Sedalia people. The following letter received from the trustees of the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Foundation confirms this estimate:

"The Trustees of the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Foundation have reviewed the plans which have been formulated for the progress of the Sedalia public school system.

In our opinion, the future development of any city is in a large measure dependent upon its educational and recreational facilities.

The proposed additions and expansion of the physical properties of the Sedalia school system, as submitted by the board of education, meets with our full approval since it would provide urgently needed facilities, which in turn, would help to insure the continued progress of our educational system. We feel that the erection of the new physical education and music building at the Smith-Cotton High School will further the hopes and dreams of Mrs. Jennie Jaynes Lewis as expressed in her will by further developing the recreational facilities of Sedalia.

Mrs. Lewis left her entire estate to Sedalia and these funds were used in making our fine, modern stadium available to the public, in hopes that such facilities would inspire the creation of equal facilities in other areas of recreation.

The present school bond issue will in a way express the appreciation of the citizens of Sedalia for her interest in us.

We sincerely hope that the people of Sedalia will approve this bond issue and make these sorely needed facilities available now to our citizens of tomorrow."

Charles M. Van Dyne, Vice-President

And this is not all. The new building will be naturally suited to the holding of large conventions and trade shows, and as such will be unrivaled in Central Missouri. The main auditorium, with the stage thrown open, will seat large gatherings. The track section is ideal for setting up convention exhibits. Booths along the front lobby will hold convention displays and the high school cafeteria can be depended upon to help solve feeding problems for the largest convention delegations.

Year-Round Assets
Sedalia is already known as the home of the Missouri State Fair. The new building should put this reputation on a year-round basis, with a corresponding added contribution to the city's continued growth and prosperity.

The Sedalia school improvement program of which the physical education and music building is a part, will be submitted to voters for approval in a special election Tuesday, Feb. 7. All persons living inside the present school district will be eligible to vote, providing: they are 21 or over, they have lived in the city 30 days, and they have lived in the state a year. Registration will not be required to vote in this special election. Polling places will be set up in the city's seven elementary schools.

Alabama U. Promises End To Disorders

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—University of Alabama authorities promised steps today to head off further disorders resulting from presence of the first Negro student on its campus.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president, revealed that disciplinary action is being considered against students responsible for two noisy demonstrations Friday and Saturday night.

Meanwhile, at New Orleans, the Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University was considering ways to bar a flood of Negro enrollments. The group of deans and board members also took up the issue of LSU athletic teams playing teams with Negro players.

Lewis Gottlieb, a Baton Rouge banker and chairman of the group, said the board will meet Feb. 18 "with the deans of the colleges to discuss the possibilities of changing entrance requirements."

LSU in the past has admitted Negroes under federal court order. Piety crosses were burned and students sang "Dixie" and shouted "Keep Alabama white" during demonstrations here that lasted for several hours each night.

Aatherine Lucy, 26-year-old Birmingham Negro, said she planned to continue classes in spite of the student protests.

She was admitted after a federal court ruled that the university could not deny Negroes admission because of their race. However, she has been denied use of college dormitory and restaurant facilities.

Dr. Carmichael said the school is taking steps "to avoid any further displays which might lead to disorder of any sort and of course to protect the welfare of all students committed to its (the university) charge."

Darryl Zanuck Leaves Production Position At 20th Century Fox

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie pioneer Darryl F. Zanuck is leaving the job of head of production at 20th Century-Fox Studios, to be succeeded by producer Buddy Adler.

Studio President Spyros P. Skouras announced that Zanuck has been granted a four-month leave of absence during which he will serve in an advisory capacity.

"It is contemplated that the details of an agreement for an independent production unit to be headed by Mr. Zanuck will be worked out between him and the company," a company statement said.

The change long has been expected in Hollywood. It has been known that Zanuck, 53, wanted a more personal part in picture making, which he would have as an independent producer.

Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck founded 20th Century-Fox in 1933. Zanuck produced the first talkie movie and launched the gangster picture cycle.

No Appeal Is Made For Arthur R. Brown

KANSAS CITY (AP)—No appeal has been made to save Arthur Ross Brown from death in Missouri's gas chamber, Feb. 24.

The 30-year-old Brown, sentenced to die for the kidnap-slaying of Mrs. Wilma Allen last August, had until Saturday to file appeal for a new trial.

Brown's court-appointed attorneys said he asked for no action in his behalf.

Pet Chimpanzee Tries To Hitch Ride, Gives Kiss to Motorist

ST. MICHAELS, England (AP)—Michael Blackburn stopped his car for a hitchhiker and discovered it was a chimpanzee.

The chimp tried to open the door while Blackburn, not having bargained for quite so hairy a passenger, held it closed.

While they were wrestling with the door, Mrs. Phyllis Carlton ran up and claimed the animal. She said his name was Midge, he had run away from her nearby cottage and he loved to ride in cars.

"Before the chimp would let me drive on, he insisted on kissing me goodbye," Blackburn reported.

Stevenson Celebrates His 56th Birthday

Stevenson, who celebrated his 56th birthday in his old home town yesterday, scheduled eight appearances, visits and receptions in the Los Angeles area.

And they include a variety of settings—from a public picnic in the industrial section to tea with Democratic women at the Beverly Hilton.

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination intends to follow up this routine with six more meetings and public appearances tomorrow while working his way down the coast to San Diego, 125 miles southeast.

Senate May Order Inquiry On Gas Bribe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate prepared today to order a full investigation of a reputed offer of money to Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) to influence his vote on a controversial natural gas bill.

Also up for decision late in the day was the fate of the bill itself—the center of three full weeks of floor debate. It would exempt producers of natural gas from direct regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

Backers and opponents disagree sharply over whether enactment of the bill would result in higher gas prices to householders.

Both sides predicted the vote would be close. The consensus seemed to be that the bill would pass by a narrow margin. An almost identical one was approved by the House last year 209-203.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), an opponent, said on an ABC television program yesterday the fate of the measure hangs "in the balance."

There was no way of assessing the effect on the outcome of Sen. Case's statement that a lawyer whom he had never met but whom he believed to be interested in passage of the bill had given a friend of his $2,500 in cash as a contribution to his re-election campaign.

Case said he directed that the money be returned.

Despite urging from some of his colleagues, Case has refused to tell the name of the man.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, was ready to bring before the Senate a resolution to set up a special committee to investigate Case's account of the incident "down to the very end."

The special committee would be comprised of two Democrats and two Republicans.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, joined Johnson in the request for an investigation, and no opposition was apparent in advance.

Pest Control Investment Will Pay Off

Sometimes to procure a greater net income or more profit from our farming enterprise it takes some money invested to attain that goal. This is especially true in the control of external parasites that feed upon our livestock. It has been estimated that six common pests cost Missouri farmers at least $1,740,000 a year. While this figure cannot be eliminated, it can be lowered down to respectable limits.

It has been estimated that cattle grubs cost the Missouri farmer $60,000 directly in loss of meat and milk as these warbles use the animal as a host. Also the leather industry suffers a loss when hides are full of grub holes and these losses in part are passed indirectly to the farmer. These grubs are the maggot stage of the common heel fly and not the large black horsefly. During the summer, this fly lays its eggs mostly on the hair of the heel and hind legs of cattle. During this egg laying period cattle often become aroused and stampede. On hatching, the young maggot bores through the animal's hide at the base of the hair to which the eggs were attached and bore through the animal's body tissue, using nourishment and oxygen from the animal before they come to the surface on the animal's back.

The best control is to break the cycle, and this is best accomplished after the warble has made a cyst and a hold in the animal's back. The most widely used insecticide for killing the grubs is derris containing rotenone in the dust form. A spray mixture of derris powder, soap and water can also be used effectively. Of the various substitutes probably benzol is the most readily available and satisfactory.

The biggest losses from external pests of livestock comes from the horsefly. It is estimated that horse flies cost Missouri farmers a million dollars a year. This loss being mainly in milk and meat production. This problem is one of the largest ones facing the livestock producers today as the only effective insecticide is warranted only in case of severe infestations. The best precaution is good sanitation and removal of breeding place for flies.

Excluding the horsefly all the other types of flies cost Missouri farmers $440,000 yearly. Here is one place that losses can really be cut down as there are sprays to fit all types of livestock and all one has to do is follow a definite spray schedule. Here again we can accomplish results at less cost by removing breeding areas. Good sanitation practices will keep down the fly numbers thus relieving the problem. The combination of all flies cost Missouri farmers $1,500,000 yearly. Here is a spot to realize more net profits.

Flies, however, are not the only pests costing Missouri livestock farmers money each year. It has been estimated that our yearly loss from lice is $120,000, from mites $80,000 and from ticks $40,000 or a total of $240,000 a year from these three pests. Lice can be controlled by various sprays depending on the animal involved, ticks can be controlled by use of Lindane or Toxaphene while mites are controlled by DDT. These three pests can easily be eliminated.

If you are eliminating these pests you are receiving good return from your spray dollar investment.

Seven Points to Consider In Good Family Living

1. Plenty of good food for family health

Each family must decide how much food to grow at home, taking into consideration the facilities and the time and skill of family members.

Each of us has room to improve in our ability to manage our food wisely. As your club studies foods and nutrition, try making a few well-chosen resolutions that will help you to make your family food dollars really pay off in sound nutrition.

It's a big challenge, but one the wide-awake homemaker can meet. How can your club help each member with this important part of family living? How can each member help the club?

2. A house that is comfortable, convenient and attractive, well equipped and furnished

When we are well-informed home makers, we can help make the money spent on our homes really pay off in satisfaction to our family.

Those of us who cannot start with a new home know that much can be done to improve any home when the members of a family work and plan together. "Improvement of home and farm buildings means spending considerable money — it should be considered an investment, with the expected return over a period of years — an investment to reduce labor, to increase farm incomes and to improve family living."

What do you need most to make your home comfortable, convenient, and attractive for all of your family? Now is the time to begin planning with your family if you have not already done so.

3. Clothing suitable for family needs

When all the family plan and vested, if you are not eliminating these pests, you are letting unsold meat, milk, and produce keep these pests alive and increase your cost of production.

work together for clothing needs, every member will understand about his or her portion of the clothing dollar.

Planning together as a family offers an excellent opportunity for children to learn to buy wisely as well as helping them to understand some of the basic expenses which must be taken care of by their family.

Through your studies, your club can help the families it represents make the best use of money spent on clothing.

4. Education and personal development

Our opportunities for education and growth are unlimited if we but have the forethought to plan and work for these advantages. With wise family planning, each child can take his share of the responsibility for his education.

There are many ways to further our personal development. Much can be learned through our churches, organization, clubs.

A wealth of information can be obtained from your county agent and home agent. They are members of the faculty of the University of Missouri and are in your county to help you and your neighbors learn of the University of Missouri and College of Agriculture teachings.

5. Provision for the health needs of all family members
Good health, physical and mental, is essential for successful family living. In our country, we have the finest service for the care of our health that the world has ever known.

Why not work together as a club to improve the health of each family and the community? Maintaining good health helps free money for other things important in family living.

ily living, but best of all, good health makes life worth living.

6. Recreation and participation in community activities

When well chosen, recreation helps us to relax in a busy world. It can heighten our enjoyment of living. It can bring us pleasure through sharing good times with our family and friends.

Recreation and community participation can bring us real satisfaction in family living when we plan ahead for them, so that they fit our family, our pocketbook and our interest.

7. Financial Security

Providing for financial security is a vital part of successful family living.

The ways in which our family saves will depend upon what we expect our future needs to be and how much we choose to save for each need.

Our homes can provide opportunity for children to learn the good use of money, not only to cover today's needs, but to provide financial security all along the way. Wise planning and efficient farming practices are necessary to provide sufficient income for good family living.

How can your family learn how to make full use of land, labor and capital?
What we get out of life is often a matter of choice.

Life Can Be Different After 35

Advancing years in almost anyone's life set up a change of desires. For instance how delightful a half century ago to have the snow for sledding and ice for skating remain with us for a couple of weeks at a time. Snow upon snow made no difference.

Remember when pedestrians would yell at the driver of the horse-drawn delivery sleigh: "Whip behind!" because some youngster had attached his sled-rope to the sleigh runners for a belly-ride down the street.

Those days are changed in this motor age. Those things which meant so much to us then have been replaced with other desires. Right now we'd like to leave this cold behind and get along to the warmer clime of Florida. We heartily agree with J. C. Penney, 80-year-old chain store executive, who recommends globe-trotting as a pastime for elderly persons (and some not so elderly, like ourselves) when he and his wife took off Sunday from New York for a tour of Europe and Asia.

Things like winter's delight which mean so much to you before 35 may change indeed as years advance, even to the extent of taking more seriously matters concerning your health.

According to a research expert William C. Keenan, reporting in the Journal of Lifetime Living, that is just what both men and women consider overwhelmingly their first choice — good health. This study bears out, too, the thinking of Mr. Penney — men want to travel more.

Some other elements of the study reveal that after 35 men and women show greater concern and interest over money matters; they place greater emphasis on religion or faith in God; they become decidedly more charitable and more altruistic; they show more concern about friendship, less about domestic matters and develop a keener understanding and tolerance of other people.

By and large, though, men and women want health first; and money not so much for what it can buy as for what it can prevent — dependence upon charity of others or being a burden.

Look around among your acquaintances and your personal observations will reveal the accuracy of Mr. Keenan's study to be true.

Right now a lot of us would like to trade places with Mr. Penney who is a frequent visitor to Sedalia. His many friends here wish him fulfillment of his desires for continued health and pleasant travel, good medicine as he suggests, for all of us.

The World Today—

Gas Bill's Passage Threatens Confusion

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the natural gas bill—which the Senate votes on today—becomes law, it may mean higher prices on gas for homes. It seems certain to create confusion for years.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), the bill's author, says it "clarifies" the present law. But in its key part the language is so vague it probably will be fought through the courts, if it becomes law.

It would free producers of natural gas from direct federal control. In this way, Fulbright says, it will encourage producers to turn out more gas and thus keep prices down.

Asked if the gas price for householders will go up if the bill is passed, he said: "I would not say it can't go up." The bill's other chief sponsor, Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.), says there may be some slight increases.

Why the bill at all? Fulbright and Monroney and others say producers shouldn't be under direct controls. They note that oil and coal prices are not controlled by the federal government.

To begin with, there are now three groups of people, involved in getting gas into your home from a well perhaps 1,000 miles away: the producer, the pipeline company, and the local utility company.

1. Producers find gas while looking for oil. There are between 5,000 and 8,000 of them. Of these, 190—or between 2 and 3 per cent—sell 90 per cent of the gas to the pipelines. Those 190 include some of the biggest oil companies.

2. Pipeline companies buy the gas from the producers and carry it from the states which produce it—the biggest producers are in the Southwest—to other states which need it. About 17 pipeline companies almost completely dominate this field.

3. Outside a city the local utility company buys gas from the pipeline and moves it into homes through city and town gas mains, over 300,000 miles of them. Each local utility company has in effect a monopoly.

For that reason most utility companies are under state or city control. Their rates are fixed, allowing them usually a price that will give them a per cent return on their investment.

The producers and pipelines, whose gas moves across state lines, were not controlled until 1938. Congress then passed an act giving the Federal Power Commission authority over "natural gas companies."

Those three words caused confusion for years. What is a natural gas company? There was no doubt it meant pipelines. But did it also mean producers who simply sold their gas to pipelines?

The FPC, setting the rates for pipelines and utilities, said that it didn't think Congress meant it to control producers. That went on for years. On June 7, 1954, the Supreme Court said FPC, under the 1938 law, must control producers.

At once FPC froze all producers' prices. Since then it has let a number of them raise prices. But the FPC ran into another problem. The 1938 law said the FPC should fix "just and reasonable rates" for producers and pipelines.

In the year and a half since the court decision FPC still hasn't worked out a formula that would govern "just and reasonable rates." Meanwhile, the producers have sought for years to get from under any semblance of FPC control.

Fulbright's bill would put them under indirect control this way: The FPC is supposed to control the prices pipelines pay producers for their gas. What should that price be? The bill says a "reasonable market price." What's that?

There is huge disagreement. The FPC, which still hasn't worked out a formula to fit the language in the present law—"just and reasonable rates"—has told Congress it would prefer to administer that phrase than try its luck with a "reasonable market price."

Fulbright and others backing the bill say there should be no trouble with it. But Douglas and those opposing say "reasonable market price" really means the sky's the limit on the prices producers will be able to charge.

Dr. Jordan Says—

Conquest Of Infections Reduces Nephritis Cases

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

"Having recently found out that I have nephritis" writes H. B., "I wonder if you would devote a column to it."

First, I should like to point out that nephritis is the same thing as Bright's disease, the latter name being applied to honor the famous English physician Richard Bright who contributed so much knowledge to the subject.

Nephritis is an inflammatory disorder of the kidneys which may start suddenly after an acute infection such as scarlet fever, pneumonia, or tonsillitis or may develop more gradually without any signs of acute inflammation, possibly several months after an acute infection or even without any obvious reason.

Bright's disease may get gradually worse for months or years and destroy more and more of the functions of the kidneys. If only one kidney is involved, it may never be noticed, but if both are attacked the condition can be serious.

In acute nephritis the patient usually feels uncomfortable and may notice some puffiness under the eyes. Swelling of the lower part of the legs, and perhaps even bloody urine, slight fever and chilly sensations are common. Nose-bleeds, headaches, loss of appetite sometimes appear. The lessened amount of urine and its dark, bloody, or cloudy appearance are characteristic. Chronic nephritis starts more gradually, though the symptoms are like the acute variety but less severe. Accumulation of fluid (dropsy or edema) is common.

As soon as diagnosis has been made by means of examination of the urine and the blood, treatment should be begun. In acute Bright's disease, bed rest is necessary. Diet is important and it is now devised to fit the ability of the kidneys to take care of the food eaten. Many years ago most patients were strictly limited in the salty foods and proteins they could take. Today more liberal allowances of these foods is sometimes permitted.

Billy Graham In India—

Impediments Fail To Dampen Ardor of Indian Listeners

By GEORGE BURNHAM
Chattanooga News-Free Press Staff Writer

PALAMCOTTAH, India — "This is frightening."

Dr. Robert Pierce, noted American missionary leader who has seen many strange sights in the Orient, breathed these words a few minutes after Billy Graham had given 40,000 Indians an invitation to become Christians. It was clear it was frightening in a wonderful way.

An estimated 5,000 surged toward the platform. There was not enough space to hold them. The average response from a crowd like this is 1,000. Many believing Christians in the packed throng expected God to do something big, but none were prepared for the thousands who moved forward to accept this new way of life.

There was something in the faces of the people as they came. Many were weeping. Others had a look of joy. Both reactions had been produced by the same message they had heard in a language they could understand about a God who loved them and gave His son Jesus Christ for them.

Men and women who had been sitting on straw mats in different sections of the huge outdoor meeting site moved down the aisles around the platform. Still they rushed forward.

A blind man was led by his daughter. A worker had told the daughter she would have to send the father alone with the men but Dr. Paul Maddox, Billy Graham's aide, intervened and told the daughter she could take him to the women's section.

A woman, sobbing quietly, left her seat and moved forward. She had gone only a short way when her angry husband rushed up and grabbed her roughly and pulled her from the stream of people.

The people were of all types— young and vigorous, old and ugly, deformed and diseased. There were only 400 counselors to talk with the thousands.

When it became clearly dangerous for more people to come forward, Billy asked them to remain where they were in the aisles. Many of them waited for hours until counselors had a chance to get their names and say a few words to them.

Church leaders said they should have expected something unusual at the end because "the devil did everything he could to break it up at the beginning."

The public address system failed and the spirited choir almost sang itself to death. Killing time, a little boy was brought to the platform whose mother was lost. Then Billy began his address. A few minutes later he had to stop when a great clamor went up from a section of the crowd. They couldn't hear the choir sing. As the people were moved to another section Billy began again. He spoke firmly—carefully explaining the way to God through faith in Christ.

form of nephritis, special attention is given to the accumulation of dropsical fluid. Drugs are frequently used to stimulate the secretion of the urine or to other methods of removing some of the excess fluid. Accumulated fluid inside the abdomen is often drawn off through a needle.

Because so many of the infections which bring on nephritis are now being conquered or shortened by the new treatments, it looks as though chronic Bright's disease may become less common. Present emphasis should be on attempts at preventing nephritis. Once chronic nephritis has developed, a patient should remain under medical observation and care. It has been stated recently that by the intelligent use of penicillin in the treatment of streptococcal infections the frequency of nephritis should decrease.

Then came the invitation and unexpected surge of people.

A missionary who had served in India for 25 years stood off to one side and looked on with shocked emotions. He said: "Our eyes have never seen anything like this." His prayers had been answered. He said he had started the day by reading in Joshua 3:4, "... ye have not passed this way heretofore."

Sidelights:

During Billy's visit to Germany last year he tried many times to see Lutheran Bishop Hans Lilje of Hannover, one of the world's most influential church figures. But he was never successful because of conflicting dates. As Billy was walking into the lobby of the Comermara Hotel in southern India, he bumped into a man. It was Bishop Lilje. "God works his wonders in mysterious ways," said the bishop.

One of the most sacred gods of the Hindu is a cow. Any steak you get in India will come from a Daisy that dies of old age. Several Hindus were spotted here one day with one of their cow gods, giving her a bath out in a stream of water. They scrubbed her from stem to stern for about 45 minutes. The cow would try to break away but they would haul her back and scrub some more. Old Betsy appeared to be about the most miserable god that ever lived. There is no doubt this particular one would have given up all her glory for a quiet pasture away from the icy fingers.

Democrat Pick-Ups

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

Having moved to a new place, the young girl went down in the basement to do her laundry. She picked up a pan to get some water and turned both the hot and cold water on at the same time. The next thing she knew the pan was full and she couldn't turn off the water because she needed both hands to hold the pan.

The pan overflowed, water spilled over her and her feet were getting wet from the water all over the floor. She was in a bad predicament. How was she ever going to get that water turned off — and she was really good and wet before it ever dawned on her to set the pan down.—H. L.

The little boy always asked the blessing at the table and he would look around at the food and name everything on the table. "Thank you God," he would say, "for the bread, the meat and the potatoes." Then he would continue until he had named everything. The family bore with him through the entire blessing. Then one night he started in with his thanks and named everything on the table. Then he said: "And thank you, God, for all the GE appliances."

That was more than his mother could stand. She stopped him right there. "It is all right," she said, "to thank God for the food on the table, but leave the GE appliances out of it."—H. L.

Roosevelt Puts Brownell On Spot

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt of California has handed Attorney General Brownell a hot potato that he can't either drop, throw back or hold in his hand.

The eldest son of the late President, now in Congress, has written Brownell a letter, couched in the most polite and dignified language, asking what power Brownell has regarding Negro voting rights in the South and what he plans to do about them.

Roosevelt doesn't mention the Emmett Till murder in Mississippi nor even the larger number of Negroes reported to have been barred from registering in Mississippi since that murder. What he does is remind the Attorney General of denial-of "the right to vote because of the color of skin, accident of birth, and the threat of violence."

Then Roosevelt proceeds to ask Brownell three blunt questions:

1. "Is there existing federal law to take care of the situation?"
2. "If legislation is needed do you plan to recommend such legislation?"
3. "If such recommendations are planned, do you plan to make your views known in the near future so that action may be taken at this session of Congress?"

If Brownell replies that no new laws are needed, then he puts himself in the position of being negligent about enforcing current laws. If he replies that more laws are needed, then he gives support to northern Democrats who already have drafted an anti-lynching bill.

It will be interesting to see what Brownell does with his hot potato.

Ike's $64,000 Question

Most positive promoter of the idea that Eisenhower will run again is Gen. Lucius Clay, former commander of the American armies in Germany after Eisenhower returned to the USA in the postwar days. Clay, now head of Continental Can, had a session with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, following which he told friends that he was certain the President would run again. . . . General Clay incidentally is one of the closest men to Eisenhower, picked most of the cabinet for him, including Charles Wilson as Secretary of Defense, Arthur Summerfield as Postmaster General, and George Humphrey as Secretary of the Treasury. . . . Milton Eisenhower, who once said his brother definitely would not run again, now guardedly remarks: "He might run again." . . . Vice President Nixon, on the other hand, says quite definitely though privately that Ike has now decided not to run. . . . Take your pick.

Senate Rule 12

Ex-Senator, ex-President Harry Truman was asked by newsmen in New York last week about the ethics of senators voting for the natural gas bill when they own gas stocks or gas leases.

"They should not vote," replied the blunt Mr. Truman. "We did not do it when I was in the Senate. We followed Senate Rule 12."

This is the rule which provides that a senator with a financial interest in any pending legislation should refrain from voting on that legislation.

Guest Editorial—

COLUMBIA MISSOURIAN: Criticism As Slander. A recent bill proposed by Mississippi legislators would make it a crime to "slander" that state and its institutions.

It is fairly obvious that the bill is aimed at press criticism of the attempts to get around the Supreme Court decision on segregation. While many southern papers are opposed to integration they have not had anything kind to say about wild schemes to abolish the public school system.

Most thinking persons in the South are not willing to go along with the plans that some state legislators have dreamed up, nor are most newpapers.

It is at these Southerners that the Mississippi bill is aimed. Under its provision residents of the state would be deprived of the right to criticize policies of the state legislature, because the line between criticism and slander would be decided by these same legislators.

The whole thing is obviously unconstitutional.

Meanwhile one senator who has probably the toughest election fight of any had the courage to stand up and express the hope that senators would follow Rule 12 in the balloting on the gas bill. He is Wayne Morse of Oregon, who, because he shifted from the Republican to the Democratic party, has big eastern GOP leaders gunning for him.

RCA Probe

A $4,000,000 order for Korean war walkie-talkies which were not waterproofed for moisture and fungus is now being investigated by the General Accounting Office, thanks to the prodding of Congressman Joe Tumulty of Jersey City, N. J.

The radio walkie-talkies were manufactured by the Radio Corporation of America, and official reports now state that RCA gave Uncle Sam the hairy end of the radio lollipop, with some Signal Corps officers apparently quite pro-RCA.

Here is the inside story of what happened: On Aug. 17, 1950, shortly after the Korean war started, the Signal Corps ordered 10,285 walkie-talkies from RCA for $4,427,945.45. The contract specifically stated:

"All supplies except rotating electrical power equipment will be treated for resistance to moisture and fungus."

About a year later, however, June 4, 1951, RCA asked the Signal Corps to waive the requirement for over-all moisture — and fungus-proofing in favor of partial treatment. This was OK'd by the chief Signal Corps inspector, Elic P. Guilbeau, stationed at the RCA plant. It was also OK'd by Anthony Carnevale, Signal Corps chief engineer on June 12, 1951. Finally, it was OK'd July 12, 1951, by Capt. A. M. Seltzer, Signal Corps contracting officer.

However, these Signal Corps officers failed to get a price reduction on the walkie-talkies to compensate for the fact that moisture — and fungus-proofing was to be partially waived.

"None of the Signal Corps personnel who were involved in the waiver of over-all MFP treatment," says the General Accounting Office report, "recommended that the price of the equipment be decreased on that account."

Faulty Radios

However, when the first 25 walkie-talkies that RCA turned off the assembly line were tested, four developed rust. Later, in 1952 and 1953, Army units which had to use walkie-talkies complained. One report from the Korean command stated:

"This item has not been MFP'd when manufactured, and as a result fungi, rust, and corrosion caused deterioration in major parts."

Reported the Fourth Division in Europe: "Ten per cent of radio set AN PRC-10 have developed internal corrosion and fungus. . . . It is recommended that the manufacturer apply a moisture and fungus-proofing solution in the assembly of radio set AN PRC-8, 9, and 10 and that spare parts be moisture-fungus proofed."

As a result, the Signal Corps in April, 1953, asked the Radio Corporation of America to re-instate its over-all MFP—this being the Army term for "moisture and fungus proofing." Whereupon, RCA charged Uncle Sam an additional $4.95 per set.

In other words, RCA was permitted to get out of its moisture-proof contract in the first place without a reduction in the cost of the walkie-talkies. Then it turned around and charged the Army $4.95 a set for resuming the moisture-proofing.

Nevertheless, this extra charge was okayed by Capt. J. A. Maliniak, the Signal Corps contracting officer in Philadelphia.

Thus, the taxpayers paid $50,919.75 under the first contract for something they didn't get; then turned around and paid an extra $50,919.75 on the second contract. Total loss: $101,839.50.

Commented Tumulty: "If as much concern had been given to the taxpayers' interest as to RCA's, a lot of the taxpayers' money would have been saved and a lot of their sons saved in Korea."

Leaner Cuts Of Pork Give New Appearance In Counters, Are Better Deal For Customers

By Jim Reynolds
MU Extension Economist

Pork is very much in the news these days. Advertising and promotional campaigns on pork are in full swing. Advertising will promote an idea with people to buy pork but it doesn't actually do the selling job itself. That must be done at the retail meat counter face-to-face with the customer.

Last week was set aside for a national promotion campaign by the meat industry on pork. Individual retailers across the country tied in their own merchandising activities with the national campaign.

Pork does have a new look in the meat counters because it is leaner now. Pork is leaner because the industry has adopted a new closer trim on pork cuts at the packing house. The new pork trim on loins, hams, and shoulders calls for just 1/4 inch or less of fat left on the cuts. This compares with the old methods of trimming fat which left as much as 1/2 inch of fat or more on these cuts when delivered to the retail store. This makes pork cuts an even greater value or better buy for the customer. Incidentally, pork cuts at the grocery store are now a better buy than they have ever been before in relation to the amount of money that people have to spend for food.

You can encourage your local retail grocer to use the information that has been made available to them in recent weeks on pork. Ask them to use this information in their advertising. Ask them to use more and better pork displays in their stores. Check to see if the pork cuts in the meat counter look as good as they can be made to look.

If you produce hogs, you can help your own market for pork. You can do this by marketing hogs at lighter weights and by selecting and producing a meat-type hog.

Market hogs sold at light weights have less lard. We know that excess lard alone can depress the market by more than $1 per hundred. Further damage is done when over-fat cuts — cuts with fat all through them that can not be trimmed off — go on display at the meat counter. Customers don't buy these fat cuts. These lighter market hogs weighing around 200 to 210 pounds produce only about 3 gallons of lard. A heavier butcher hog weighing around 250 or 260 pounds will produce about 5-5 1/2 gallons of lard. Marketing hogs at lighter weights, say from 10 to 20 pounds lighter than last year, will reduce the total tonnage of pork and lard which will in turn support market prices.

Confidence in pork needs to be built up among the retail buying public. Given the right type hogs, retailers can move more pork. It's a two-way operation. Packers can help and are doing so by use of the new trim. Farmers can help by the move to meat-type hogs and more marketing at lighter weights. Meat-type hogs are bringing more money per hundred right now. Indications are that the spread between prices for meaty hogs and fatter hogs will be more this coming year than at any other time of high hog numbers.

GOOD FARMING

in Pettis County
By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Extension Agent

Listed below are some of the dates ahead:

Thursday, Feb. 9 — Bill Pugh here to set up hog production programs.

Thursday, Feb. 16 — 1 p.m. Seed Certification Meeting, Johnson County.

Friday, Feb. 17 — County Poultry Meeting, Assembly Room.

Tuesday, Feb. 21 — 7 p.m. County Livestock Banquet, Pacific Cafe.

I have received the following letter from Coy McNabb, Extension Economist at the University, who was with us for a meeting recently.

Dear Merle:
At the outlook and policy meeting a few days ago in your county, someone asked about the importance of importing beef and pork into this country and how this was affecting our markets. Since then I have had an opportunity to look this up and here are the figures for the year 1954. (These are the latest figures available)

Total pork imported, 170.3 million pounds.

Total pork exported, 52.9 million pounds.

Total lard exported, 465.4 million pounds.

Our best customer for our lard was West Germany. They took almost 50 million pounds of lard, but at the same time they sold us 15.5 million pounds of hams, shoulders and bacon. We could use one pound of bacon or ham easier than we could use 3 pounds of lard.

Beef Story Similar
The beef story is somewhat similar and here are the figures for beef and veal for 1954:

Total beef and veal imported, 125.7 million pounds.

Total beef and veal exported, 33.8 million pounds.

Total tallow exported, 819.0 million pounds.

That leaves a net of 91.9 million pounds or we imported more beef and veal than we exported. However, we exported over 819 million pounds of tallow, which has very little demand in this country. We imported 17.8 million pounds of beef and veal from Mexico, but at the same time we exported to Mexico eggs, lard, corn, wheat and tobacco, as well as 45.6 million pounds of tallow plus many other agricultural products in smaller quantities.

I mentioned earlier that our net imports of beef was 91.9 million pounds, or saying that another way, it is 2.2 days supply of beef and veal consumed in this country. Argentina sent us more beef than any other country and we exported to them a sizeable quantity of cottonseed oil and other seeds. We also obtained some beef from Uruguay, but our exports to them was other than agricultural products.

Trees Becoming Scarce
We had word this week that some varieties of trees available through the Conservation Commission were sold out. Those no longer available are Shortleaf Pine, Red Cedar, Scotch Pine, Catalpa and Bush Lespedeza.

The trees are expected to be delivered Friday afternoon, March 23, and they will surely be here by Saturday morning, the 24th. That is only six weeks away and folks should make every effort to have their ground prepared ahead of that time.

The trees will be delivered to the home of the new County Conservation Agent and can be picked up there. His name is Chet Vermaas and his address is 1642 Honeysuckle. That is in the new addition off Highway 65 and across from the Country Club.

Nematodes
Nematodes are tiny worms that infest some garden areas and make it difficult to grow any kind of garden produce. Their control was discussed at a garden meeting Tuesday night with employees and proprietors of local garden seed and insecticide stores.

Arthur Gaus, Extension garden specialist, mentioned a new material called "Vapam". Since then, a circular regarding the material has come to my desk.

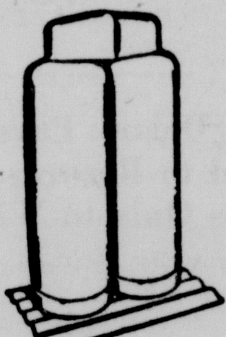

It is apparently more effective and easier to handle than previous ones. However, it will damage roots of shrubs and trees and the limes may harm or defoliate established plants so it must be handled with care. At least one dealer at the meeting said he would handle the material.

Tips on Using Heat Lamps For Brooding

By C. E. Stevens, MU Extension Agricultural Engineer

Heat lamps are being used more and more for brooding livestock. They are a big help if installed and used safely but are a serious fire hazard if used carelessly.

Here are some suggestions for the safe use of heat lamps. A reflector should be used to hold the heat lamp. This helps protect the lamp from bumps which might break it. Some reflectors have a loop or bail on the bottom side. This should be big enough so if it does fall into the litter it will roll over aiming the lamp upward instead of allowing it to point at the straw and start a fire.

The socket should not have a switch in it and should be made of porcelain. The porcelain socket is necessary because of the high temperatures caused by the lamps. Other sockets soon become unsafe because the insulation fails. So remember, always use a porcelain socket. If you wire the sockets yourself, use wire with heat resistant insulation such as heating appliance cord which has asbestos around the wires.

The lamps should be supported by a chain and never by the electrical cord. They should be high enough or protected so they are out of reach of the livestock. It is important that the lamp be no closer than 18 inches from the litter no matter what livestock are brooded. If used closer than 18 inches from the litter there is too much danger of fire.

Do not get the lamp closer than 12 to 15 inches from the animal. This is a minimum. For pigs 18 or 20 inches would be better. This would put the lamp about 30 inches above the litter.

Use hard glass heat lamps if there is danger of water being splashed on them. They are more expensive than the soft glass but

Farmers Held Responsible For Supported Wheat

Farmers who have farm-stored wheat from the 1955 crop under price support are responsible for maintaining the quality and quantity of the wheat placed under loan, according to C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

He reminds farmers particularly that wheat put under loan since last July 1 must meet the sanitation standards of the Food and Drug Administration. At the time the loan was made by the Commodity Credit Corporation and the wheat was examined to be sure will not break if water gets on them.

Do not use more than seven 250 watt heat lamps on one 20 ampere circuit. This is no more than 1750 watts for a circuit using No. 12 or larger wire.

the sanitation standards were fully met. If the loan is not repaid by the maturity date and the CCC accepts the wheat to satisfy the loan, the grain must meet the same sanitary standards.

Chairman Staples suggests that the best way to protect grain from contamination is to make the storage building tight enough to keep all mice, rats, and birds from the grain. Rats and mice should also be eliminated from grain bin areas by use of one of the new poisons.

Since even a tight grain bin does not guard against insect infestation, Staples recommends frequent inspection and prompt fumigation of the grain if evidence of insect infestation appears.

According to the ASC chairman, the only way to be sure your farm-stored wheat under loan will be of as good quality in the spring as it was in the fall is to keep the bin tight and weather-proof, to poison rodents in the bin area, and to fumigate at the first sign of insect infestation.

4 Missouri Farmers Tell How They Made 151-Bushel Average Corn

New methods should be proved before you put your money and trust in them. Jerry Main, Linus Sellmeyer, R. E. Hoffman and Douglas Weekly investigated carefully before they used MFA ANHYDROUS AMMONIA.

You can't see it. You don't know that it's there any more than you can see the new miracle compounds in the new high-production feeds; or the air in your automobile carburetor. But putting in the correct, accurate percentage of either gets amazing results, when you come to think of it.

Investigation showed that MFA has the best-trained ANHYDROUS AMMONIA applicators in the U. S. All four farmers used MFA ANHYDROUS AMMONIA (82% Nitrogen). Their results: yields of 129.88 to 170.40 bushel corn per acre. What this means is that YOU can now raise YOUR crop sights, too.

YOU ARE ABSOLUTELY SURE when you use MFA ANHYDROUS AMMONIA. It's TRIPLE CHECKED... assuring you that it gets into your soil... works successfully... produces results. This is so sure that MFA GUARANTEES you an accurate application every time. Use performance-proved MFA ANHYDROUS AMMONIA this year and raise the extra cash you want for less. Tiger Results In Game With NKC at Clinton

Smith - Cotton's victory over North Kansas City in the Clinton invitational high school tournament Saturday brought revenge for the local Tigers who lost to Northtown in football last fall. Northtown was favored to win the Clinton affair but found a fighting Tiger group who came from behind to take over and win by a one-point margin of 72-71.

The teams battled through the first quarter with North Kansas while in the second the Tigers merged ahead 13-10 to lead at the halftime by a 33-31 score. In the third period the Sedalia went wild on scoring and hit for 25 points against 17, only to see the opponents plowing through with 23 points in the fourth to the Tigers 14, a bare margin to win.

Charles "Van" Van Dyne was the high point man for the Sedalians with nine goals and ten free throws for 28 with Charles Newman second with 7-1 for 15 points. Snowden of North Kansas City, who was Van Dyne's man on the court was held to six goals and three free throws for 15 points while his teammate, Henderson, was high with 2-4 for 18 points.

William Chrisman defeated Lexington 88-54 for third place while in the consolation bracket Warrensburg Public High defeated Clinton 45-43.

His Old Jinx Blocks Eddie Hickey's Way

By JIM VAN KALKENBURG
The Associated Press

Eddie Hickey's long-time jinx—Hank Iba and his slow-poke Oklahoma A&M Cowpokes—stands in the way tonight of Hickey's Saint Louis team, which threatens to take complete command of the Missouri Valley title race.

St. Louis is unbeaten in six Valley games and is bidding for top-10 national recognition with a nine-game winning streak and a 14-2 record.

By taking the Aggies (2-2) and runnerup Houston (5-2) Saturday, both at St. Louis, the Billikens would have an 8-0 record and need just one victory in their last four games for a title tie and two for an undisputed crown.

But two defeats would knock them into second place behind Houston, if the Cougars win at Bradley (2-2) Thursday.

If the speedy, high-scoring Bills were facing any other conference foe but the Aggies, they'd be prohibitive favorites.

Iba's cautious, defensive-minded clubs have meant nothing but trouble for Hickey's fast-breaking teams since he took over at Saint Louis in 1948.

Iba won 13 of 16 games over Hickey in that stretch and leads 23-11 including Hickey's nine Creighton teams. Only one of Hickey's six Valley championship teams since 1936 escaped defeat by the Aggies.

Even his 1948 National Invitation Tournament tiltists couldn't beat A&M and four other Hickey teams could have won the crown by beating Iba.

In fact, Hickey lost more times to Iba since '48 than to all other Valley teams combined. In contrast, the Iron Duke of Stillwater batted .313 against Hickey but .757 against the rest of the conference.

Monday Fights Are to Continue Until Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pending a final decision by Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, the Monday night fights continue at St. Nicholas Arena with Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., meeting Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico in a featherweight match tonight.

Helfand probably will rule within the week on his finding on charges against the club, promoter Tex Sullivan and his ex-partner Willie Gilzenberg. In the meantime matches will be approved.

Courchesne - Berrios is a rematch of a Nov. 14 bout won by the busy New England boxer, who whipped Johnny O'Brien in his last start. Berrios' latest was a TKO over Pat Marcune.

The match will be seen on television (Dumont).

Ralph (Tiger) Jones, the old favorite of the TV fans, comes back from a three-month layoff to box Tony Baldoni of Wilkes - Barre, Pa., on the Wednesday show (ABC Radio-TV) from Washington.

Probably the bout that means the most title-wise is Friday's pairing of Isaac Logart of Cuba and Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles at Madison Square Garden (NBC-radio-TV).

The latest ring ratings spot Fuentes No. 3 among Carmen Basilio's challengers with Logart No. 5. However, Logart is a fast-moving youngster who cracked the "Top 10" in the last year on the strength of victories over Ludwig Lightburn (twice), Gil Turner and Virgil Akins.

May Put Lid On Salaries Of Ballplayers

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball club owners, harassed by player efforts to raise the minimum salary from $6,000 to $7,200, may retaliate by attempting to place a maximum on the amount of money a player can receive.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said "definitely not" when asked whether the club owners were considering maximum salaries, if forced to raise the minimum, and club owners declined to comment. But a high official (not a club owner) said "maximum" was the key word in the statement issued after a joint meeting of the American and National leagues Saturday.

The leagues reaffirmed the decision of last December in keeping the minimum salary at $6,000. But they approved the appointment of two three-man committees from each league to meet with the 16 player representatives "to review the present league salary structure and ascertain whether the present minimum and unlimited maximum standards are equitable."

"Very definitely the owners had maximum salaries in mind when they made that statement," said the official, who asked that his name not be used. "It is only natural that if the owners are forced to raise the minimum that they'll look to save money by cutting down on the maximums. That's business."

The National League committee consists of John Galbreath of Pittsburgh, Dick Meyer of St. Louis and Joe Cairns of Milwaukee. The American League group includes Tom Yawkey of Boston, Walter (Spike) Briggs of Detroit and Hank Greenberg of Cleveland.

Nothing is expected to be resolved before the season opens in April. But Commissioner Frick said he expects the meetings to be held "shortly after the season opening."

Bobby Feller of Cleveland and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, league player representatives, said they were "gratified" that the owners had taken constructive action on their request.

But Feller and Roberts said their attorney will ascertain the "precise meaning" of the owners' program so that all details may be considered when the 16 player representatives get together in Tampa, probably March 7.

Cary Middlecoff Wins Phoenix Golf Tournament

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff won the $15,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament and he thought a 10-foot putt he sank for a birdie on the first hole of the final round was the key shot.

The 35-year-old veteran might have added another stroke — the one from the tee that young Jim Blair III of Missouri put into a pond — on the 15th. That broke a dead-even battle and cost the amateur sensation of the event a chance for victory.

Middlecoff went on to shoot a 68 for a 72-hole score of 276, eight under par. He won $2,400.

Blair came in with a 1-under-par 70 and a tie for third with Jimmy Demaret at 280. The man Middlecoff easily feared, big Mike Souchak, wound up second with a 69 for 279.

The tournament scene shifts to Tucson and the $10,000 Open this weekend—minus Middlecoff. He is heading home to finish work on a golf book.

Souchak collected $1,800, Demaret $1,400 and Gene Littler, with a final 69 and 281, won $1,200.

Ken Venturi, the San Francisco amateur, finished with a 69—283 and a tie with Jay Hebert, who had a 69.

Other contenders who drifted back included: Lionel Hebert, 74—285; Ted Kroll, 76—287; Bo Winger, 77—289; Johnny Palmer, 72—285; Paul McGuire, 75—288, and Eldon Briggs, 79—292.

Baseball Congress Approves the Second Global World Series

CHICAGO (AP)—A resolution approving the second annual global world series was passed today by the National Baseball Congress.

The series will be assigned in the United States early in September involving the same eight nations which competed last year at Milwaukee.

Champions from Asia, Europe, Canada, United States, Colombia, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Hawaii will take part.

The winner of the annual national tournament in Wichita beginning Aug. 17 will represent the United States.

Wildcats Reverse Rank Of Year Ago

By SKIPPER PATRICK
The Associated Press

The Kansas State Wildcats were not too highly regarded last fall in the Big Seven Conference basketball championship picture. But with half their league schedule gone they are leading the race and looking very much like champions.

Last Saturday K-State humbled defending champion Colorado 82-51 at Manhattan to make its conference record 5-1. Iowa State climbed into second place at 4-2 by beating Kansas 79-53 at Ames to avenge an earlier loss at Lawrence.

Missouri perked up a bit to defeat badly undermanned Oklahoma 77-72 at Norman. It was the Tigers' second conference victory against three losses. Oklahoma has lost all six of its league games.

Nebraska (1-2) defeated Emporia State 72-59 in a non-conference game at Lincoln.

Kansas State has two tough assignments this week. The Wildcats will play Nebraska at Lincoln tonight and Colorado at Boulder Saturday.

Kansas (3-2), which started last week in a three-day tie for the lead with Colorado and Kansas State, can have a make-or-break week with Missouri at Lawrence tonight and Nebraska at the same spot Saturday.

The Kansas question is: How potent are the Jayhawks without ace Dallas Dobbs who was lost for the season because of scholastic troubles last week? The Jayhawks definitely missed him at Iowa State.

Iowa State and Missouri will meet in the only other conference game at Columbia Saturday.

Two non-conference games will match Iowa State and Drake in Des Moines Tuesday and Oklahoma and Oklahoma A&M at Stillwater Thursday.

Ron Delany Pays No Heed to Records, Runs Only to Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Unusual fellow, this Ron Delany.

He runs only to win, paying no heed to records, stop watches, promoters or pacemakers.

That may be good or may be bad, according to your personal point of view as to how a mile race should be run. The promoters, who like records by the bushel, are tearing their collective hair out.

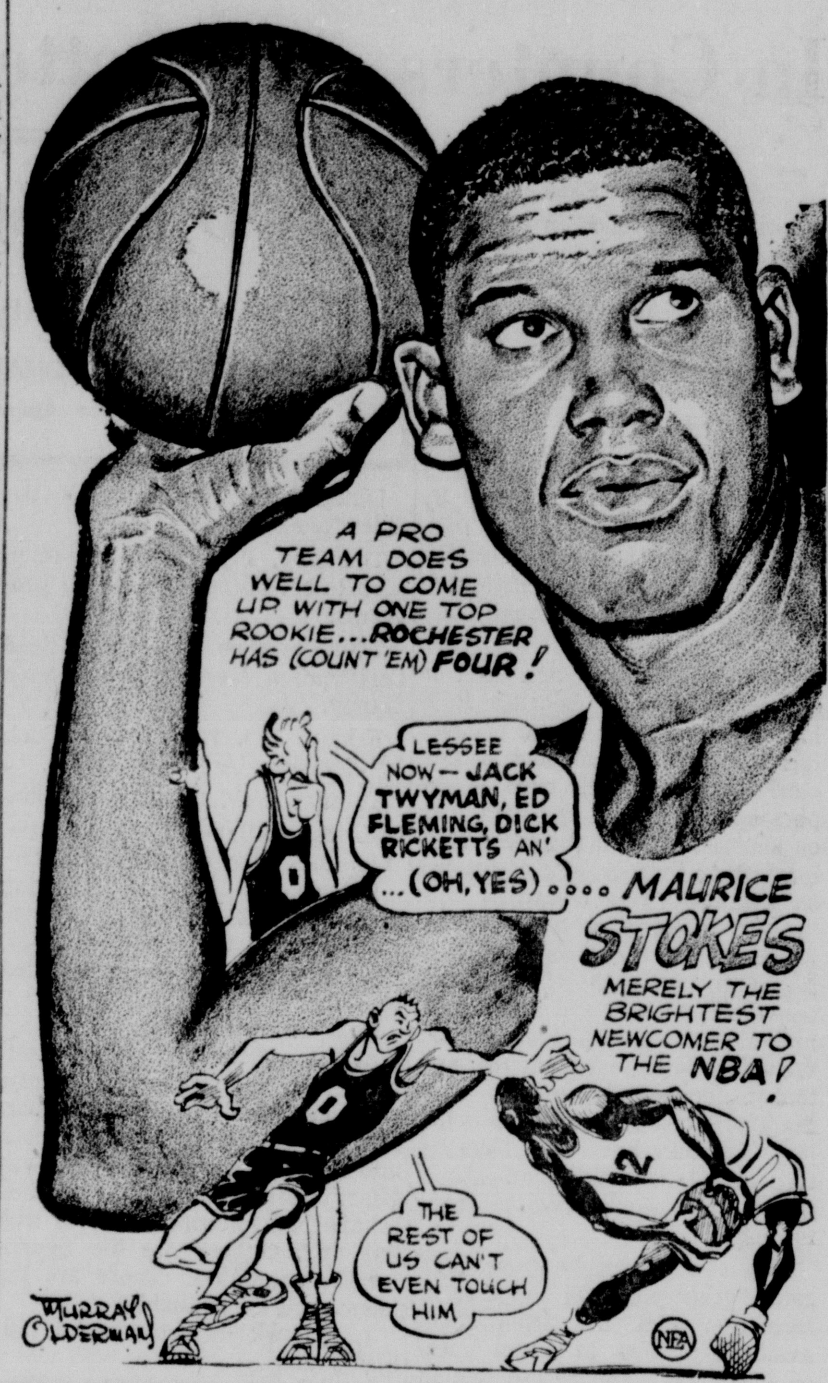

One thing is certain, though, and that is without Wes Santee, who has been shelved by the AAU for at least the next two weeks, the mile certainly is not going to be the glamour event of the indoor track circuit.

Delany, a 20-year-old Villanova sophomore from Dublin, has the field all to himself. Len Truex of the Air Force and Joe Deady, a former georgetown relay specialist, are not equipped to push Delany anywhere near a record.

Ron's 4:09.5 Millrose victory Saturday night was an effortless one. He just loped along until he was ready to make his bid, then passed his rivals as though they were running on tar.

Vermont is the only inland state in New England.

PICK OF THE CROP

Next Winter Olympics Are Set for California, in 1960

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)

—The most lavish and best run Winter Olympics in history are at an end, and the youth of the world has been summoned to gather at Squaw Valley in California in 1960 for the next games—already the center of controversy.

The Italian Olympic Committee, dipping into a big pile of money from its percentage on the national soccer betting pool, spent eight million dollars to make these games a model of efficiency.

Squaw Valley has been told by the International Olympic Committee it must get another four million from the California Legislature by April 3 to start the wheels going. It already has one million. Innsbruck, Austria, gets the games if Squaw Valley defaults.

The California sponsors are confident they can build the hotels, dormitories, restaurants, bob run, stadium, ski jump and ice rinks needed. Many Europeans are doubtful. If Cortina provides a basis for judgment, five million will hardly get Squaw Valley off to more than a good start.

Cortina started off with hotels, a bob run and a tradition as a fine sports resort, yet still spent far more than that.

The games that ended here in solemn ceremonies were won by Soviet Russia. Using the traditional method of 10-5-4-3-2-1 points in all events where gold medals were awarded, Russia had 121 to 78½ for tiny, recently liberated Austria.

Other leaders were Finland 66, Sweden 62, Switzerland 55½ and United States 54½. Thirty-two nations competed and 18 scored.

The Olympics recognize only individual champions and try to discourage unofficial team scores.

Only one event was run off yesterday, the special ski jump. Antti Hyvarinen and Aulis Kallakorpi of Finland took first and second, with Harry Glass of Germany third. All had jumps over 90 meters (about 262 feet).

Americans were outclassed. Art Devlin of Lake Placid, N.Y., did 244 feet 5 inches and best-10 for 194.5 points and 21st place in the field of 53. Dick Raho of Iron Mountain, Mich., made the best jump by an American, 255 feet 10 inches, but fell and got only 158 points for this and his other jump of 244.5. He was 51st.

Sailer and Albright Are Standout Winners In Olympic Games

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)

—Here are the Olympic standouts: Hero - Austria's Toni Sailer, triple winner in alpine skiing events.

Heroine: Tenley Albright, United States, who overcame the pain of a severely gashed leg to win the women's figure skating title.

Biggest setback: The United States, which finished sixth in unofficial team standings.

Greatest success: Russia, which won six gold medals on its first appearance in a Winter Olympics and won in unofficial team scoring.

Loudest cheers: For Carol Heiss and Ronnie Robertson, United States, after performances that brought them only second places in women's and men's figure skating.

Union Confab Is Disrupted By Quarrels

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A number of quarrels blossomed out today among AFL-CIO leaders gathered for a seashore winter meeting.

The feuds, bubbling up only two months after the AFL-CIO merger was completed, are expected to be thrashed out at the first session of the consolidated labor movement's Executive Council.

Walter Reuther, red-haired ex-chief of the CIO, is in the middle of one of the biggest arguments. It involves his big United Auto Workers and the building trades, backbone of the former AFL.

The basic dispute is a relatively small one but points up still-existing differences between former AFL and CIO unions over craft or industrial organizing.

A Packard-Studebaker Corp. plant in Detroit is shifting machinery to handle a jet airplane parts contract for the government on a time deadline.

Some already-hired workers, members of Reuther's UAW, were available but not in sufficient number to do the job.

An outside contractor was hired and he brought in members of former AFL building trades unions as workers. The building trades insisted on doing the entire job or none of it, and threw up picket lines. Reuther's members are crossing the lines to work.

Reuther insists it's all right with him if the building trades help finish the hurry-up job in the auto plant, but says they can't take over the work of his own union members.

"They want us to lay off our own people and that doesn't make sense," Reuther told reporters. "We're not going to be pushed around."

Building trades union leaders, on the other hand, maintain that

Mamie Is Acting Like She Might Like Another Term

PRESIDENT AND FIRST LADY at "Salute" dinner. Her friends put an end to talk that she's fed up with White House role.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Mamie Eisenhower is acting like a woman who would be perfectly willing to spend another four years in the White House.

No one denies Ike's wife will happily settle down at the Gettysburg farm should he say, "No." But those close to her report she has a bright-eyed zest for the life she is now leading.

Mamie's radiant appearance and skilled work other than production should go to unions having particular jurisdiction, such as bricklayers, carpenters and so forth.

Ambitious AFL-CIO organizing plans also are being held up by differences among unions on how the joint organizing funds should be spent. Each union wants aid in its own particular field.

high spirits at several recent public functions seem to bear this out. Friends emphatically put an end to all talk that she is fed up with her First Lady role and thinks of nothing but retiring with Ike to Gettysburg.

They further say she is leaving it up to the President to decide if he feels like another term.

This was pretty much confirmed when Ike said at a recent press conference that no member of his family objects to his running.

The Eisenhowers, however, have not held a family council on the matter, according to one who has known them for years. They just don't operate that way.

"As in all families, you can easily tell how those close to you feel about things," it is explained. "That's more or less how the President has judged his family's opinions."

On more than one occasion recently Mamie has quietly said that Ike is calling the play as to his future plans.

Other day, for example, she held a reception at the White House for over 150 members of Young Republican Clubs here for a leadership training school. It was her first large handshaking function since the President's illness.

Bob Williams, director of the training session, had a chance to chat briefly with Mrs. Eisenhower

Apprentice Embalmer Charged in Stabbing Of 7-Year-Old Boy

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—An apprentice embalmer faces charges today of following a 7-year-old boy to a movie theater restroom and stabbing him to death.

He is Thomas Lynn Johnston, 24, whom Police Capt. Michael Strazzo quoted as saying he jabbed a pocket knife blade into the throat of Ronald Wendorf "just to see what he would do."

The boy, son of truck driver Eugene Wendorf, had gone to a triple bill matinee yesterday with two brothers, Billy, 10, and Bobby, 8.

Strazzo said Johnston admitted following the boy through the small downtown theater's lobby up the stairs to the restroom. The policeman said the boy was pulled into a toilet closet and attacked with a knife behind a closed door.

Johnston was concerned and held for the police by Bert Silvera, the theater's manager, and William Sanderson, the assistant manager.

The coroner's office said there was no indication of a sex motive for the crime.

Woman and Children Are Found Shot

GARDINER, N.Y. (AP)—A rural housewife and her three children were found shot to death in their home and authorities sought today to establish a motive for the apparent triple slaying and suicide.

Robert Tattersall discovered the bodies of his wife Alma, 28, and children Robert Jr., 3; Alma, 5; and Veronica, 8.

Ulster County Dist. Atty. Howard St. John said Mrs. Tattersall apparently called the children into the living room one by one yesterday and shot them in the head before turning the gun on herself.

while posing for pictures with her. He mentioned how enthusiastic everyone was at the "Salute to Eisenhower" dinner when a speaker said he hoped the President would run again.

"There is just one man who can make that decision," Mamie replied with a smile.

"I was amazed at how peppy, refreshed and young looking she was," exclaimed one of the girls after meeting Mamie. "And she was genuinely interested in our activities."

According to one source, Mamie is actually more rested than ever before. Although she was extremely distressed during the first crucial weeks after the heart attack, the First Lady was able to cut down her own pace during Ike's recuperation.

Even Mamie's jewelry has brought comment lately. At the "Salute" dinner she wore large earrings which spelled out Ike in brilliant letters. And at a picture taking appointment the First Lady had an elephant pin on her dark blue dress.

GO AHEAD—GIMME A TICKET!—Worried about an overtime parking ticket? Not this fellow in Fort Scott, Kan. He just wants loose. Anyway, this must be what is meant by "a dog's life," especially when a feller has to stay outside, leashed to a parking meter while his mistress eats in the restaurant in the background.

Russia Charges US Is Sending Cameras In Huge Balloons

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia charges that U. S. military forces are dispatching fleets of huge balloons carrying automatic cameras and radio equipment over Soviet territory from West Germany and other border nations.

(In Washington, a State Department spokesman indicated the Russians apparently were objecting to high-altitude weather balloons the U. S. Air Force announced last month it would send up in Europe in preparation for the International Geophysical Year.)

A Soviet note published by the official news agency Tass demanded that the United States immediately stop such activity. It said the balloons were a menace to aircraft.

It demanded a halt also to propaganda-carrying balloons by private U. S. organizations.

Tass said the Soviet protest was handed to U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. A similar protest went to Turkey.

The Soviet note complained that the balloons, weighing nearly three quarters of a ton when loaded, "are launched by United States military organs from the territory of Western Germany and from United States air bases on the territory of several states bordering on the Soviet Union."

Aiken Predicts Veto Of Rigid Farm Prices By the President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today Congress will invite a presidential veto if it votes to reinstate higher, rigid farm price supports along with a new billion-dollar soil bank plan.

"Although I've not talked this over with President Eisenhower, I'm pretty certain he would not agree to take this backward step," said Aiken, senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee.

But Chairman Ellender (D-La.) said the bill also contains most of the things Eisenhower has asked for farmers, and added, "I don't think the President would veto it."

The committee voted 8-7 Saturday night to return to mandatory 90 per cent of parity support for major crops. Present supports, approved in 1954, range from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a price determined by farm law as fair to farmers on the basis of the cost of things they buy.

At the same time the group accepted the new soil bank program asked by Eisenhower and Secretary Benson. This aims at reducing the multibillion-dollar farm surpluses now in government hands by offering cooperating farmers special payments to reduce their planting of cotton, wheat, corn, rice and cigar binder tobacco for the next four years.

Congressman Offers To Drop Part of Bill

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) says he has offered conditionally to withdraw from a federal school aid bill his amendment which would bar federal funds to states practicing classroom racial segregation.

He said yesterday he had messaged President Eisenhower that he would withdraw the amendment if the President would enforce the Supreme Court's ruling that racial segregation is unconstitutional.

Powell, a Negro congressman from Harlem, asked, "How can you morally or legally take federal funds and spend them for people who are disloyal to the basic precepts of our government?"

Powell's controversial amendment faces probable filibuster in the Senate and could mean the death of the entire school aid program.

New Orleanians Have Day of Rest Before Mardi Gras Parade

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—New Orleanians had 24 hours to dry off today as they waited for the first night parade of the Mardi Gras carnival.

Showers and chilling breezes failed to halt three krewes as they opened the parade season with their Sunday afternoon spectacles. The krewes, Mardi Gras organizations with no other purpose than to put on balls and parades, have a day off today.

The Krewe of Orion parades tomorrow night and then New Orleans feels the tread of continual masked marchers until Mardi Gras Day, Feb. 14.

Daughter of Former UN Secretary Arrives In Connecticut

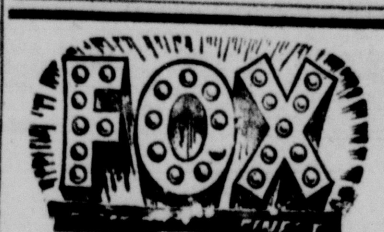

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Try Lie's daughter Guri and William Zeckendorf Jr. arrived here last night after their secret marriage in Winchester, Va.

The couple came from New York to visit the groom's father, head of the real estate firm of Webb & Knapp and a promoter of big building projects across the country.

In New York, where they visited Zeckendorf's mother, the bridegroom said they married in the manner they did Saturday because they merely wanted to save time and "avoid complications."

Young Zeckendorf said his wife's parents are in Norway and his parents are divorced. His mother is now the wife of music critic Irving Kolodin.

Both Zeckendorf and the daughter of the former United Nations secretary general are 27. It is the first marriage for both.

Hal Boyle's Column—

See Need For Workers Pool; Manpower, Inc., Is Created

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Opportunity isn't scarce—but the ability to recognize it is.

When a million-dollar idea pops up, few men have the art to see its true value—and put it to work.

This is the story of two Milwaukee lawyers who did. They turned a personal annoyance into a multi-million-dollar business.

In 1948 Elmer Winter and his partner, Aaron Scheinfeld, found themselves badly in need of an extra typist to prepare papers in a pressing court case. They needed her quickly.

"At first we tried calling the old girls who had worked for us before," recalled Elmer, "but they were all busy having babies. We were in a real jam. It took a lot of scurrying about until at the last moment we finally found a girl who could do the job for us."

"Afterward, my partner and I got to talking about how there must be many business firms which ran into emergencies when they temporarily needed extra trained help and couldn't find it. Yet there must be many people who wanted temporary work of this sort. Why couldn't there be an organization to solve the situation?"

The two lawyers, after a preliminary investigation disclosed the market was even greater than they visualized, created Manpower, Inc.

The firm, which now has 71 offices here and in five foreign countries, has built up a labor pool of scores of thousands of skilled and unskilled workers. On short notice it assembles and provides for other companies trained staffs to do practically any specialized task in the industrial world except construction work.

"We aren't an employment agency," explained Winter. "We rent help. Our people work for us, and are paid by us."

The clients of Manpower, Inc., including 79 of the nation's 100 largest corporations, range from huge insurance firms, department stores, and Wall Street banks down to a small manufacturer who merely wants a few freight cars unloaded.

"We also have furnished disaster crews to help out in hurricane and flood relief work," said Winter.

But the odd-jobs firm has also met a number of odd emergency requests.

Once a convention of funeral directors sent in a hurry-up call for a girl model to demonstrate a device designed to lift a corpse from a marble slab into its coffin.

Another time a racehorse died at a Cincinnati track and Manpower, Inc., was called on to speed a crew there to dig it a grave in the infield, while sorrowing bettors who had wagered on the horse hung around mourning.

But most of the firm's assignments are to fill the multifarious chores of business offices, and most of its employees are ex-career girls.

"We don't look for teen-agers," said Winter. "We look for mature people trained to do a mature job."

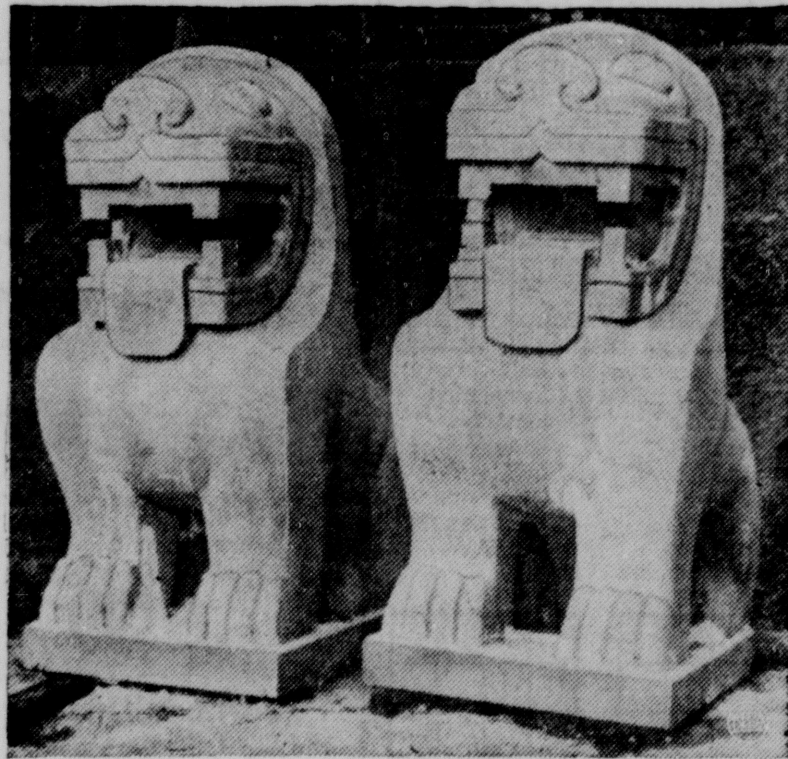

"There are thousands of middle-aged housewives who have reared their children and who would like to work part time, either because they are bored or because they frankly need the money. There are also thousands of firms that need temporary employees during peak seasons. We simply bring them together."

"We act on a fireman's basis. But one of the things we have stayed away from is baby sitting. Too many headaches in it. All our employees are bonded, of course, but I don't want to feel responsible for 2,000 little children every night. I've got three of my own to worry about."

But Winter, who is only 48, and his partner have just launched a new firm called Salespower, Inc., which will set up sales staffs to market the products of small companies.

"We feel it has an even greater potentiality than Manpower, Inc.," said Winter.

Maybe million-dollar ideas, like vices, are habit-forming. The trouble with most of us is to get the first one.

VICTIMS OF RED DOUBLE TALK—"Reactionary" is what these stone lions are officially termed in Communist China. That's why they were removed in 1951 from in front of the Communist Bank of China in Hong Kong and replaced with a pair labeled "progressive." The Reds gave these "reactionary" statues to the University of Hong Kong, but university officials didn't know what to do with them. So the statues have been sitting on the campus, unmounted, apparently unwanted.

Committee Asks For New Actions On Drug Traffic

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Cabinet committee says the underworld is finding the drug traffic "increasingly hazardous . . . though still supposedly profitable."

To help stamp out the traffic and the crime it breeds, the committee recommended a series of actions, including stiffer prison sentences, more federal narcotics agents and increased control over manufactured drugs.

The report, released last night by the White House, was prepared for the President by the Treasury, State, Defense, Health and Justice departments. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who has general supervision over the Narcotics Bureau, was chairman of the Cabinet committee.

No specific recommendations for the length of stiffer jail terms was made, but the report said these are needed especially for those who smuggle and peddle the drugs entirely for profit, with no thought of using them.

Regarding addict-peddlers, the committee said jail terms might interfere with removing their addiction, but "first consideration must be given to the protection of society from the trafficker."

Treatment and rehabilitation are the greatest need of addicts whose only crime is using the drugs, the committee said.

It recommended that courts be given greater authority to provide for hospital treatment of addicts, to be followed by close supervision as they return to normal lives.

Only six examples of Shakespeare's signature are extant today.

Five Day Blizzard, Worst in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The worst appeared over in the five-day blizzard that paralyzed Texas and New Mexico and claimed at least 23 lives.

The storm subsided last night as winds lessened and the snowfall began diminishing.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Chicago said today that the storm front, or what remained of it, seemed to be headed northeastward.

The Texas-New Mexico area "should have a respite" from the storm with above-freezing temperatures bringing about a general thawing-out, the bureau said.

The storm, ranked by Texans as the worst in 50 years and tabbed as the worst ever by New Mexico citizens, made most roads impassable and caused the closing of several schools. Classes in Plainview, Amarillo, and Lubbock were canceled today as the three Texas cities pushed cleanup efforts.

Elsewhere in the nation, fair weather prevailed today except for an area of precipitation stretching from eastern Kansas in a southeasterly direction to the Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

Senator Says Russia Has Fired Missiles Farther Than US

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Symington (D-Mo) says the Russians "have fired tested missiles hundreds of miles farther than anything this country has ever tested."

He did not give figures for either country but he said, during an NBC-TV interview, that "there is no question in my mind whatever" that the Russians are ahead of the United States in developing intercontinental ballistic missiles. This country hopes to develop such a weapon with a 5,000-mile range.
